Statement

My practice is informed by sensitivity to the materials I use and to create objects that connect with the body on both physical and intellectual levels. My work focuses on the socio-political landscape, sustainability of life systems and the psycho-spiritual realms. I am drawn to the practice of installation and how an environment can activate both an object and audience's emotional response to a work.

As I operate between the intersection of craft and design, both paths inform each other's progression.
